

News in Review

Periodic Mailing from the
South Carolina State Historic Preservation Office
Review and Compliance Division
August 2010

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1. Changes to Reference Room Hours
2. Working with Section 106 Workshop
3. SC Preservation Conference Call for Proposals

- 1. Changes to Reference Room Hours: The Archives and History Reference Room will be open on Tuesday through Saturday, 8:30 am to 5:00pm. We will not be open to researchers on Monday, although the SHPO will have normal office hours on Mondays.
- 2. Working with Section 106 Workshop: The SHPO is hosting a workshop on the Section 106 process, changes to the project review form, and other aspects of the Section 106 process. The workshop will be held Thursday, October 21, 2010, from 9:00am to 3:00pm. The workshop is free and will begin at the Archives and History Center (8301 Parklane Road, Columbia, 29223) and will end with an on-site visit to the Columbia Canal in downtown Columbia. An agenda will be posted on our website. To register, please e-mail Caroline Wilson at cwilson@scdah.state.sc.us. If you have any questions about this workshop, please contact Rebekah Dobrasko at (803) 896-6183 or dobrasko@scdah.state.sc.us.
- 3. SC Preservation Conference Call for Proposals: The 2011 South Carolina Preservation Conference will be held in March in Columbia at the Archives and History Center. Do you have an idea for a session that would benefit others? If so, let us know! Education Sessions cover a variety of topics ranging from "Preservation 101" to advanced discussions of exceptional, cutting-edge issues. Education Session proposals are reviewed by a selection committee, and may be combined when appropriate with other proposed sessions. Your session should be interactive, featuring not more than three speakers and a moderator. For more information on submitting a session proposal and the requirements, see our website at <http://shpo.sc.gov/conf/landpconference/>.